

Exciting news!
We won the 2011 National Storytelling Network Brimstone Award for applied storytelling to promote change in individuals and communities!!

We are being honored for our unique 2011-2012 year-long storytelling series, Intergenerational Interactive Storytelling for Ex-offenders and Seniors, a model of intergenerational cooperation to enhance empowerment, self-esteem, knowledge and understanding.

Based on last year's effective pilot program, we were asked by our partners, the Durham Criminal Justice Resource Center and the Durham Center for Senior Life, to provide storytelling sessions for ex-offenders and seniors throughout the year. We are supported in part by The Mary Duke Biddle Foundation.

Because our program is original and highly successful, we are creating a manual of instructions to encourage agencies and organizations across the country to replicate our work.

To see the schedule of 2011 storytelling sessions, click here. If you wish to observe a storytelling session, you may register by email, storieswork@gmail.com, or phone 919-433-1535.

home

This is good news! Our important work depends on the help of many individuals, people like you. Please support this unique program. Go to the homepage and scroll down to the 'DonateNow' button. You have our heartfelt thanks!